BREPOLS PUBLISHERS

Viking and Medieval Scandinavia

In launching the annual journal Viking and Medieval Scandinavia, the editors aim to replenish and develop the tradition of journal publication in the field of medieval Scandinavian studies. Our conception of the field is broad, extending chronologically from the Viking Age and the sources of Viking activity to the end of the medieval period, while reaching geographically from Russia to North America. In subject matter we aim to disseminate research in all areas germane to the field. From time to time, round-table discussions and other forms of debate are published. Although the primary language of the journal is English, the research [...] will emanate from many countries and from different languages and research environments. We therefore welcome contributions to the journal from all academic quarters.

Judy Quinn, Stefan Brink, and John Hines (Founding Editors of VMS), Preface to VMS 1 (2005)

Contributions are invited for future issues of the journal. Please contact one of the editors for publication deadlines. Information on the journal and its styleguide can be found at:
