Anselmo d'Aosta e il pensiero monastico medievale

Luigi Catalani, Renato de Filippis (eds)

The collected essays present the main aspects of the speculation of Anselm of Aosta (1033-1109), one of the key figures of the philosophy and theology of the Middle Ages. They focus on: his theological perspectives, his methodology for the construction of a systematic and rational knowledge, and the value of his pedagogic approach, his political reflections, his idea of monasticism, his logical competences and his influence.

A Scholar's Paradise Teaching and Debating in Medieval Paris

Olga Weijers

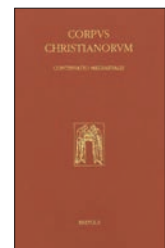

This volume offers the general reader a synthesis of academic life in Paris during the first centuries of its existence. These early years were a period of excitement, discovery and intellectual freedom. Perhaps never again would a community of scholars engage in teaching and debate in such an astonishingly new and fresh world, with people, texts and ideas multiplying rapidly and surrounded by an equally rapidly developing city.

Intellectual Culture in Medieval Scandinavia, c. 1100-1350

Stefka Georgieva Eriksen (ed.)

This book investigates the nature of intellectual activity in the Middle Ages from the perspective of medieval Scandinavia by discussing how a multimodal and multilingual Scandinavian culture emerged through the dynamic interchange of foreign and local impulses in the minds of creative intellectuals. By deploying cognitive theory, this volume conceptualizes intellectual culture as the result of the individual's cognition, which incorporates physical perceptions of the world, memory and creation, rationality, emotionality and spirituality, and decision making.

Languages of Power in Italy (1300-1600)

Daniel Bornstein, Laura Gaffuri, Brian Jeffrey Maxson (eds)

The essays explore the languages – artistic, symbolic, and ritual, as well as written and spoken – in which power was articulated, challenged, and defended in Italian cities and courts, villages, and countryside, between 1300 and 1600. Topics addressed include court ceremonial, gossip and insult, the performance of sanctity and public devotions, the appropriation and reuse of imagery, and the calculated invocation of authoritative models and figures.

Reading Sacred Scripture with Thomas Aquinas

Hermeneutical Tools, Theological Questions and New Perspectives

Piotr Roszak, Jürgen Vijgen (eds)

The nineteen essays explore the richness of Aquinas' biblical commentaries by analyzing the hermeneutical tools employed in his reading of Scripture and investigating the contemporary relevance of his biblical exegesis. Aquinas taught theology as a form of speculative reading of the revealed Word of God and hence the reading of the various books of the Bible constituted the axis of his scriptural didactics.

Les Auctoritates Aristotelis, leur utilisation et leur influence chez les auteurs médiévaux

État de la question 40 ans après la publication

Jacqueline Hamesse, José Meirinhos (éd.)

En 1974, à l'époque de la publication du texte des Auctoritates Aristotelis les chercheurs n'avaient pas encore mesuré l'influence que ce florilège avait pu avoir dans bon nombre d'œuvres médiévales. Beaucoup de progrès ont été faits depuis. Le but du Colloque était donc de faire un nouvel état de la question et de montrer à l'aide d'exemples pertinents l'usage qui fut fait des citations contenues dans le recueil par divers auteurs de l'époque.

Individui universali. Il realismo di Gualtiero di Mortagne nel XII secolo

IV Premio Internazionale de Tesis Doctorales, Fundación Ana María Aldama Roy de Estudios Latinos

Caterina Tarlazzi

Il realismo degli universali sostenuto nei primi decenni del XII secolo nelle scuole del nord della Francia è stato studiato principalmente attraverso la critica di Pietro Abelardo, mentre materiale inedito a favore delle teorie realiste non sempre ha ricevuto adeguata considerazione. Questo libro analizza la teoria realista sugli universali per la quale si propone qui la denominazione di "teoria dell'individuum".

Formal Approaches and Natural Language in Medieval Logic

Proceedings of the XIXth European Symposium of Medieval Logic and Semantics, Geneva, 12-16 June 2012

Laurent Cesalli, Frédéric Goubier, Alain De Libera (eds)

The late medieval period not only considered logic as a sine qua non condition for scientific knowledge, it also begot highly sophisticated theories about both argumentation and language. The twenty-five papers consider the issue of the formal character of medieval logic and aim at clarifying in what sense the language it is operating on (and in) is natural or not.

Peter Lombard and His Students

This book takes a broadly biographical approach to Peter Lombard, examining him in relation to his environment and milieu. The first part details Peter's career. The second part, "The Master and His Students", opens with a comprehensive treatment of Peter's sermons, his most neglected and in some ways most revealing works. The chapters on his students examine only those students who are known to have studied with him. This allows for a close focus on how a school operated in the twelfth century.

Sin, Interiority, and Selfhood in the Twelfth-Century West

The aim of the study is to uncover the conception of self that underlay the demand that all Christians confess their innermost thoughts. Drawing on sources from the world of the medieval schools, it juxtaposes discussions that treat topics ranging from the difficulties of discerning the source of tears to the mechanics of original sin. All these discussions are linked by their underlying interest in the internal aspects of committing or remitting sin.

Thierry of Chartres The Commentary on the De arithmetica of Boethius

Arithmetic was one of the seven liberal arts taught in the French schools just before the middle of the twelfth century, and Boethius's De arithmetica was the principal textbook for this art. This volume provides an edition of a commentary on the De arithmetica (cod. Stuttgart, Cod. math. 4° 33); the accompanying introduction identifies the author of the commentary as Thierry of Chartres, and provides a careful consideration of how the commentary reflects his philosophy.

Aristoteles Latinus Database

The complete corpus of medieval translations of the works of Aristotle

The critical edition of the Medieval Latin Aristotle is one of the main projects supervised and supported by the Union Académique Internationale / International Union of Academies. The most important objective of the project is to bring to scholarly attention the various forms in which Aristotle's text came to be read in the West. The Latin versions of these texts constituted the main tools for the study of science and philosophy in the Middle Ages. They were considered as being the canonized littera to which all the commentaries on Aristotle's work referred. The role played by these translations in the development of the Western philosophical and scientific terminology can thus hardly be overestimated. All the texts that have been critically edited in the series Aristoteles Latinus are now available online together with the texts not yet available in a critical edition.

Eriugena and Creation

Proceedings of the Eleventh International Conference on Eriugenian Studies, held in honor of Edouard Jeuneau, Chicago, 9-12 November 2011

Willemien Otten, Michael I Allen (eds)

The thought of Johannes Scottus Eriugena (ca. 810-877) has only been subject to critical study in the twentieth century. Now, with the completion of the critical edition of Eriugena's masterwork – the Periphyseon – the time has come to explore what is arguably the most intriguing and vital theme in his work: creation and nature.

Vérité et apparence

Mélanges en l'honneur de Carlos Lévy, offerts par ses amis et ses disciples

Perrine Galand, Ermanno Malaspina (éds)

L'activité scientifique de Carlos Lévy s'est concentrée surtout sur le sujet fascinant et toujours actuel du rapport entre vérité et apparence, entre dogme et incertitude, entre ontologie et gnoseologie. C'est donc autour du binôme vérité et apparence, envisagé autant d'un point de vue philosophique que d'un point de vue plus proprement rhétorique ou poétique, à travers l'étude d'auteurs de l'Antiquité à la Renaissance, que s'est construit ce volume d'amitié.

Historical and Intellectual Culture in the Long Twelfth Century

The Scandinavian Connection
Mia Münster-Swendsen, Thomas K. Heebøll-Holm, Sigbjørn Olsen Sønnesyn (eds)

Outskirts of Latin Christendom produced historical narratives providing their present identities with a foundational past. The essays gathered here all seek to illuminate the emergence of a written historical culture in Denmark from the early twelfth century onwards by situating this historical culture in a wider geographical, chronological, and cultural context.

Raison et démonstration Les commentaires médiévaux sur les Seconds Analytiques

Joël Biard (éd.)

L'objet de cet ouvrage collectif est d'étudier quelques moments majeurs des interprétations et usages des Seconds Analytiques. Ce volume propose ainsi une histoire de la transmission et de l'interprétation de ce texte, tout en visant à éclairer quelques questions importantes pour la nature de la démonstration et de la connaissance scientifique.
