This volume inventorises the whole historiographical production of Late Antiquity.

The Clavis Historicorum Antiquitatis Posterioris, part of the Brepols series of Claves - Subsidia, is an inventory of all attested works of historiography from Late Antiquity (300-800 AD), in whatever state of preservation. It offers full coverage of works written in Latin, Greek, Syriac, Armenian, Georgian and Coptic, whilst also including Jewish and Persian works. It contains information on author and work, and provides guidance on authorship, social and religious context, genre, sources, manuscript tradition, and editions and translations. A substantial introduction discusses genres in late ancient historiography, and numerous indices facilitate the use of the Clavis. In this way, the CHAP will be an essential research tool for scholars working on the history of historiography, Late Antiquity and Patristics, and it will facilitate further research on the genre.

Andreas, brother of Magnus

Ar[giac|agus; A|Andreas
Other names: Andreas of Byzantium

Date: Middle of 4th c.
Confession: Christian (Nicene)
Social Status: Unknown

Andreas is always designated as the brother of the bishop Magnus, who is sometimes erroneously mentioned as author too. There is no evidence for a link with Byzantium, although the form Andreas of Byzantium is sometimes used by modern scholars.

TREATISE ON THE FEAST OF UNLEAVENED BREAD
