

TRANSCULTURAL MEDIEVAL STUDIES

The series Transcultural Medieval Studies provides a forum for innovative scholarship of pre-modern times in pursuing an interdisciplinary approach, encouraging comparative analysis and fostering methodological reflections on transculturality in the broad sense. It publishes monographic studies and volumes of collected papers which systematically consider the interaction and entanglement of European, African, Asian or American languages, cultures and religions, as well as research on cultural and religious phenomena between centres and peripheries of societies or in border regions.

Method of peer review: double-blind undertaken by specialist members of the Board or external specialists

Fields of interest: historical, cultural and religious studies, including also areas such as art history, philosophy, archeology, anthropology and social sciences
