

Nubia: Studies in the Archaeology and History of Northeast Africa

Nubia is a broad term for the cultures of the Middle Nile region in what is now northern Sudan and southern Egypt. Nubia has been historically significant in north-eastern Africa and in connecting Africa with the Mediterranean region and the Middle East, but there remains a sense that its cultures remain little known by comparison with ancient and medieval societies to the north.

The Middle Nile region has been the subject of documentation, historical research, and archaeological survey and excavation for nearly 200 years in a discipline that has come to be known as Nubian Studies. Today, Nubian Studies extends over a broad area of north-eastern Africa that has historically been in contact with the Middle Nile.

This series aims to contribute to the dissemination of knowledge of Nubia and its connections in this broad geographical and historical sense by publishing monographs, analytical studies, and edited collections on the archaeology and history of north-eastern Africa from earliest prehistory to the early modern period. The methodological range of the series is broad, encompassing both archaeology and history, as well as art history, bioarchaeology, environmental studies, museum studies, and discussions of heritage.

General Editor

Geoff Emberling, University of Michigan
geoffe@umich.edu

Editorial Board

Michele BUZON, Purdue University
Intisar SOGHAYROUN ELZEIN, Khartoum University
Angelika LOHWASSER, Westfälische Wilhelms-Universität Münster
Marc MAILLOT, Section française de la direction des antiquités du Soudan
Andrea MANZO, Università degli Studi di Napoli 'L'Orientale'
Claudia NÄSER, UCL London
Artur OBŁUSKI, Uniwersytet Warszawski
Salaheldin Mohamed AHMED, Qatar-Sudan Archaeological Project (QSAP)

Publishing Manager

Rosie Bonté
rosie.bonte@brepols.net

Method of peer review – Single-blind undertaken by members of the Editorial Board or external specialists

Fields of interest – Archaeology, history, art history, bioarchaeology, environmental and landscape studies, museum studies, cultural heritage

Geographical scope – Northeast Africa, including northern Sudan, southern Egypt, and environs

Chronological scope – From the Paleolithic to early modern times

With thanks to Kari Guilbault for the series logo

SUBMISSIONS

This series warmly welcomes volume proposals for both monographs and thematically coherent essay collections.

Please contact Geoff Emberling or Rosie Bonté for further information

Main language accepted: English | Additional languages: French, German

Author Information

Brepols Publishers' general guidelines in English and a proposal form for authors and editors are available at <http://www.brepols.net/Pages/Getfile.aspx?dlfi=88>.

All volumes in this series are evaluated by the Editorial Board, strictly on academic grounds, based on reports prepared by referees who have been commissioned by virtue of their specialism in the appropriate field. The Board ensures that the screening is done independently and without conflicts of interest. The definitive texts supplied by authors are also subject to review by the Board before being approved for publication.

Why Publish with Brepols?

- Authors work closely with, and benefit from, the expertise of the Editorial Board, while comprehensive peer review ensures books published with Brepols have a reputation for high-quality scholarship.
- Continuity of care — authors work with the same publishing manager throughout the publication process.
- We do not charge a standard subvention for authors and we have a generous provision of images (incl. colour).
- We offer comprehensive copyediting by experienced editors with a background in archaeology and history.
- All volumes published with Brepols are distributed and marketed worldwide. Books can also be made available as e-books and we offer a range of Open Access options.