This book explores the role and function of the vision and the experience of the gigantic. Executed "out of scale" and communicating ideas about excess, giants were experienced as physically and ethically abject and, at the same time, as magnificent, apotropaic, and redemptive; as such they came to embody the very notion of the medieval sublime.

Every age has their own Plato. From 55 BCE to 1423 CE, the English knew Plato not as the Socrates-memorizing author of several dozen philosophical dialogues but as a forerunner of Christian theology and proto-scientific alchemy. This book gives an intellectual history of medieval England by tracking his surprising career in handbooks for clergy, interpretations of Latin literature, and increasingly expansive encyclopedias.

The International Medieval Bibliography was founded in 1967 with the support of the Medieval Academy of America, with the aim of providing a comprehensive, current bibliography of articles in journals and miscellany volumes (conference proceedings, essay collections or Festschriften) worldwide. Its editorial staff is based at the Institute for Medieval Studies at the University of Leeds, and the project is supported by over 50 teams of contributors in Europe, North America, Australia and Japan.

The International Medieval Bibliography comprises almost 550,000 articles, all of which are fully classified by date, subject and location, and provide full bibliographical records. The IMB offers an unparalleled tool for medievalists to identify the contents of current work published throughout Europe, the Americas and the Asia-Pacific region.

Subject Areas

The research areas to which the IMB is relevant include Classics, English Language and Literature, History and Archaeology, Theology and Philosophy, Medieval European Languages and Literatures, Arabic and Islamic Studies, History of Education, Art History, Music, Theatre and Performance Arts, Rhetoric and Communication Studies.

Related Databases

- Live links to the Lexikon des Mittelalters and the International Encyclopaedia for the Middle Ages.
- The IMB is part of the cluster Brepolis Medieval and Early Modern Bibliographies, and shares the same interface as Bibliographie de civilisation médiévale (BCM) and International Bibliography of Humanism and the Renaissance (IBHR), enabling simultaneous cross-database searching of more than 1,185,000 records.
