American Journal of Numismatics

ISSN: 1053-8356

The original American Journal of Numismatics was established in 1866 as a monthly newsletter for the American Numismatics Society. Over time it came to include more substantial numismatic articles, but it was discontinued in 1924. In 1989, the name was revived for what had previously been called the American Numismatic Society Museum Notes. This second series of the American Journal of Numismatics is one of the world's leading scholarly journals in numismatics. It is published as a single hardcover volume annually, containing article-length works of original research in all areas of numismatics.

Archaeological Research in Western & Central Asia

New Perspectives in Western & Central Asian Archaeology

The aim of the Archaeological Research in Western & Central Asia (ARWA) is to promote interdisciplinary and cross-regional research on the past human groups living in the cultural zone extending from the Mediterranean Sea to the Indus Valley, linking archaeology with history, philology, art history, cultural anthropology, heritage studies, biology, geology and applied sciences. ARWA is a full Open Access journal that focuses on transregional research on any period from the Palaeolithic to the end of the Achaemenid period.

Hortus Artium Medievalium

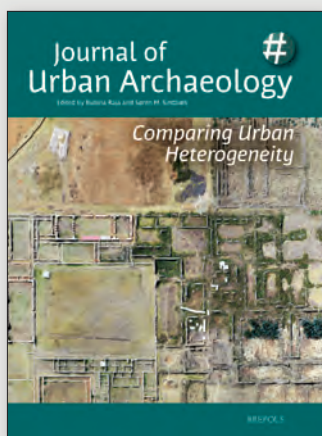

Journal of the International Research Center
for Late Antiquity and Middle Ages

Print ISSN: 1330-7274 – Online ISSN: 1848-9702

Hortus Artium Medievalium is the annual journal of the International Research Center for Late Antiquity and Middle Ages (Motovun, Croatia), established in 1993. The journal has a particular interest in studying artefacts for the history of art, and to study the period from Late Antiquity to the end of the Gothic period in an interdisciplinary, international and diachronic fashion. An annual colloquium gathers appropriate specialists, from which the papers are drawn.

Journal of Urban Archaeology

Print ISSN: 2736-2426 – Online ISSN: 2736-2434

Urban societies worldwide have created a remarkable and immense archaeological record, and the material yielded from urban sites, ranging from remote sensing to micromorphology, can tell us much about cultural constructions, environmental issues, and social evolution. The Journal of Urban Archaeology is the first dedicated scholarly journal to recognize urban archaeology as a field within its own right, and is intended to provide an intellectual forum for researchers working on the archaeology of urban societies and networks in all parts of the world and across all periods of time. This double-blind peer-reviewed journal welcomes contributions covering a range of subjects, from major new fieldwork at urban sites to discussions of theory and methodology, or wider studies exploring the culture, conditions, and connectivities of urban societies in the past.

Convivium

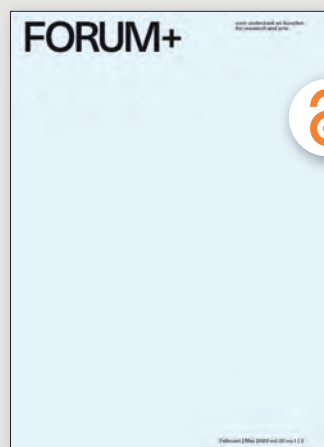

Exchanges and Interactions in the Arts of
Medieval Europe, Byzantium, and the Mediterranean -
Seminarium Kondakovianum Series Nova

Print ISSN: 2336-3452 – Online ISSN: 2336-808X

Convivium, like the rising phoenix, brings back to life a defunct periodical, the Seminarium Kondakovianum. Like its predecessor, Convivium has its base in Czech lands, where Kondakov found refuge after fleeing Russia and built his career and reputation. Fittingly, the new journal, launched in 2014 by scholars from six countries, takes a widely expansive view and encompasses scholarship in many disciplines. Starting with art history, it extends into the allied fields of anthropology, archaeology, historiography, literature, liturgy, and history. Similarly, the period throughout which it ranges is bounded by the broadest possible definition of the Middle Ages: from the third to the sixteenth century. The journal publishes two issues per year: the first is thematic, the second is a miscellany.

FORUM+

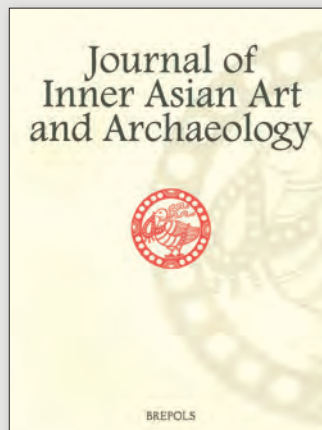

Print ISSN: 0779-7397

New Acquisition

FORUM+ is a journal that showcases peer-reviewed artistic research from various fields in an Open Access format. It is available both online and in print, and it reflects the dynamic and diverse nature of artistic research, an area of growing importance within higher arts education worldwide. The journal's central mission is to facilitate dialogue, bridging the world of artistic research with its broader academic and societal context. FORUM+ not only offers a platform for sharing artistic research results, but also aims to stimulate critical reflection on method, process, and motives. With this aspiration, the journal provides a stage for creative approaches and critical reflections on the continuously evolving landscape of research in the arts. FORUM+ is primarily aimed at researchers, teachers, and students in higher arts education across artistic disciplines. Simultaneously, it endeavors to make current developments in artistic research more accessible to a wider audience of art enthusiasts. To achieve this, FORUM+ seeks to ensure accessibility in form and content, positioning itself in between an academic and a cultural journal.

Journal of Iconographic Studies

ISSN: 1846-8551

IKON promotes a wide range of contents and themes of iconographic studies, focusing on the role and function of 'image' within the period and place of its origin as well as its contemporary reception and discernment. The journal seeks to present different perspectives on understanding and interpreting images, incorporating cross-disciplinary studies and findings in other complementary disciplines. IKON is no longer published as a journal, and was turned into a book series: IKON Studies. Iconography and Cultural Iconology, available from Brepols.

AL. Rivista di studi di Anthologia Latina

Journal of Philology applied to Late Latin Poetry

ISSN: 2038-3738

AL. Rivista di studi di Anthologia Latina is a thematic journal of philology applied to (mainly poetic) texts of late Latinity, which since its first issue in 2010 has intended to fill a gap in the panorama of scientific journals in the sector, collecting philological contributions on the subject of the Latin anthology and neighboring fields of philological and literary research. In addition to relevant articles and notes, its sections welcome contributions on the manuscript tradition, the fortune of AL and late Latin literature, and reviews.

L'Année Philologique

ISSN: 0184-6949

Founded in Paris in 1926 by Jules Marouzeau, L'Année Philologique is considered an indispensable resource by the research scholars it serves. Its aim is to annually compile scholarly works on all aspects of Greek and Roman civilization, with considerable attention given to auxiliary disciplines such as archaeology, epigraphy, numismatics, papyrology, and paleography. Book notices are accompanied by a list of reviews as they are published, while article notices include abstracts in English, German, Spanish, French, or Italian. L'Année Philologique is international in scope, not only in terms of the origin of the publications it indexes, but also in terms of the diversity of the countries where the teams involved in its compilation are based: France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Switzerland, and the United States.

The Journal of Medieval Latin

Print ISSN: 0778-9750 – Online ISSN: 2034-635X

The Journal of Medieval Latin was established in the autumn of 1991 by a group of Canadian scholars for the purpose of encouraging new and original investigations in the field of medieval Latin language and literature. The editors seek to encourage a broad range of articles dealing with every aspect of "medieval Latin studies", a term that is perhaps better expressed by the German "die lateinische Philologie des Mittelalters."

Revue d'Histoire des Textes

Print ISSN: 0373-6075 – Online ISSN: 2507-0185

The Revue d'Histoire des Textes is published by the Institut de recherche et d'histoire des textes in Paris. It covers a vast chronological and geographic scope, focusing on texts composed before 1500 from the Latin, Greek, Romance and oriental linguistic domains. It publishes preliminary materials for critical editions, as well as studies encompassing the entirety of a given textual tradition, illustrated as necessary by the edition of short texts and of previously unpublished fragments. An index of all the manuscripts cited makes each volume a valuable tool for authors of catalogues, as well as for cultural historians and, in general, for all those interested in the transmission of intellectual heritage.

ARMENIAN STUDIES

New Journal

Matenadaran (MEMAS) is an Open Access academic journal dedicated to advancing knowledge and research in medieval studies. It is a biannual (two issues per year), double-blind peer-reviewed journal that provides interdisciplinary research on medieval and early modern history and culture, and serves as a major scholarly outlet for Armenian studies. The journal promotes an international perspective, reflected in its editorial board, whose members come from a range of research institutions and universities worldwide. MEMAS features a variety of humanities topics, including but not limited to source study, history, theology, manuscript studies, philology, archaeology, and art history from the 5th to the 18th century, and accepts articles in English, French, German, and Italian. MEMAS particularly invites studies of wide-ranging connectivity to overcome disciplinary boundaries, regional limits and national research traditions in medieval studies, to open up new spaces for discussion and to foster global perspectives.

Journal of the Alamire Foundation

Print ISSN: 2032-5371 – Online ISSN: 2507-0320

The Journal of the Alamire Foundation provides a critical forum for the most recent and outstanding research on music in or related to the Low Countries up to the end of the Ancien Régime. Each issue consists of three sections. The first focuses on a specific theme. The second contains free papers applying the full range of musicological approaches on any relevant topic. The third section fulfills the Foundation's mission of promoting dialogue between the worlds of performance and scholarship by offering discussions of recent performance events, productions, editions, books, or issues. The journal's distinctive qualities ensure it maintains a unique profile. Its emphasis on research of the highest quality aims to place it among the leading journals in its field.

The Journal of the Alamire Foundation is a Diamond Open Access-journal supported by the Alamire Foundation (www.alamirefoundation.org). There are no APCs or other author-facing fees.

Almagest

Reprofiled Journal

Transnational Journal for the History of Technoscience

Print ISSN: 1792-2593 – Online ISSN: 2507-0371

The journal Almagest transitioned from an International Journal for the History of Scientific Ideas into a Transnational Journal for the History of Technoscience. The shift signifies that the journal will place a new emphasis on the rich histories of not just scientific ideas but also of experiments, people, objects, images, devices, instruments, and epistemic 'things' as they cross multiple national and/or institutional boundaries. This change is intended to reflect a prolific disciplinary (dis)order, in which science is seen as deeply entangled with technology, diplomacy as strongly related to science, and knowledge as inherently political.

Centaurus

Journal of the European Society for the History of Science

Print ISSN: 0008-8994 – Online ISSN: 1600-0498

Centaurus. Journal of the European Society for the History of Science is an international English language journal and the official journal of the European Society for the History of Science (ESHS). Centaurus publishes high-quality academic content on the history of science in the broadest sense, including the history of mathematics, medicine, biomedical sciences, earth sciences, social sciences, humanities and technology, studied from different perspectives, including epistemic, social, cultural, material and technical aspects. It also invites contributions that build a bridge between history of science and other disciplines. Centaurus contains several types of manuscripts, including original research articles and historiographical articles. The editorial board commissions experts to write book notices, book reviews and essay reviews of publications within the journal's scope. The editor encourages suggestions for special issues, spotlight sections with short papers on topics of current interest, and articles suited to open peer commentary.

European Yearbook of the History of Psychology

Sources, Theories, and Models

Print ISSN: 2295-5267 – Online ISSN: 2507-0304

European Yearbook of the History of Psychology is a peer-reviewed international annual journal devoted to the history of psychology, and especially to the interconnection between historiographic survey and problems of epistemology. The journal welcomes contributions that offer precise reconstructions of specific moments, topics, and figures in the history of psychology via the recovery and critical analysis of both archival and published sources. Critical editions of relevant primary texts or archival sources are also encouraged. While primarily aimed at historians and philosophers of psychology, epistemologists, historians of philosophy, and historians of human sciences, the journal is also open to contributions from all areas of psychology, provided they address a phenomenon or topic relevant to the discipline of psychology from a historical perspective.

Journal for the History of Knowledge

ISSN: 2632-282X

The Journal for the History of Knowledge is an Open Access, peer-reviewed journal devoted to the history of knowledge in its broadest sense. This includes the study of science, but also of indigenous, artisanal, and other types of knowledge as well as the history of knowledge developed in the humanities and social sciences. Special attention is paid to interactions and processes of demarcation between science and other forms of knowledge. Contributions may deal with the history of concepts of knowledge, the study of knowledge making practices and institutions and sites of knowledge production, adjudication, and legitimation (including universities). Contributions which highlight the relevance of the history of knowledge to current policy concerns (e.g., by historicizing and problematizing concepts such as the “knowledge society”) are particularly welcome.

Mediaeval Studies

Print ISSN: 0076-5872

Mediaeval Studies is the annual journal published by the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies. It was established in 1939, with the primary goal of publishing research on the Middle Ages by scholars from around the world, particularly research involving unedited manuscripts and archival material. Most volumes are divided into three sections: Texts, which includes extensive editions with substantial introductions; Articles, which includes studies based on unedited or edited documents and texts as well as studies of other monuments of medieval culture; Mediaevalia which consists of notices or short articles on specific documents or topics.

The Medieval Low Countries

History, Archaeology, Art, and Literature

Print ISSN: 2295-3493 – Online ISSN: 2507-0363

The Medieval Low Countries (MLC) is a peer-reviewed journal featuring articles on the Low Countries (viewed in its broadest sense as the estuaries of Scheldt, Meuse, Rhine and IJssel with their corresponding hinterlands), from the start of the fifth century to the second half of the sixteenth century. During these centuries, this region was one of the major centers of economic, cultural, religious and social development in Europe. By publishing the best of new scholarship concerning the region over the course of the Middle Ages, The Medieval Low Countries makes these achievements more visible and highlights the connections between changes in each domain. At the same time, the journal provides a forum for exchange and cooperation between established and upcoming scholars in several disciplines, whether in Europe, the United States, or beyond. The MLC is a continuation of the journals Millennium, Jaarboek voor Middeleeuwse Geschiedenis, and Medieval and Modern Matters: Archaeology and Material Culture in the Low Countries.

Print ISSN: 1016-4286 – Online ISSN: 2034-6786

For nearly fifty years, the Centre européen d'études bourguignonnes has been publishing the proceedings of its annual scientific meetings, which consistently take place in a city that lies within the geographical scope of the Centre's research. The organization's objectives, as explicitly stated in its statutes, are to promote, encourage, and coordinate historical studies related to the period of the Dukes of Burgundy from the Valois and early Habsburg houses, covering the region from the North Sea and the Rhine-Danube river system to the Mediterranean. The themes of these meetings relate to different aspects of the past of these lands, with particular emphasis on the political, economic, cultural and spiritual links that existed between them. Due to their international and multilingual nature, the volumes of the collection occupy a prominent position in the bibliography of studies devoted to this historical period, which marks the transition between the Middle Ages and the Renaissance in the Western world.

Viator

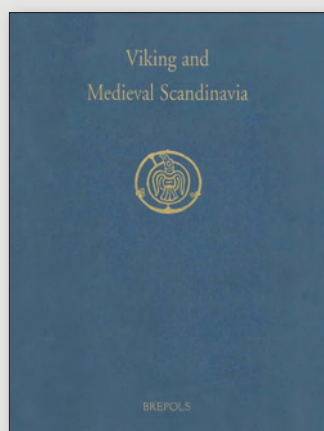

Medieval and Renaissance Studies

Print ISSN: 0083-5897 – Online ISSN: 2031-0234

Viator offers a space for renewed attention to transcultural studies from Late Antiquity into Early Modernity, while continuing its long-standing tradition of publishing articles of distinction in the established fields of medieval and Renaissance studies. In keeping with its title, “traveler,” the journal gives special consideration to articles that cross frontiers, focus on meetings between cultures, pursue an idea through the centuries, or employ methods of different disciplines simultaneously, while remaining accessible to the non-specialist reader. Viator particularly welcomes articles that look beyond Western Eurasia and North Africa and considers the history, literature, art, and thought of the eras of early global interconnection from broader perspectives.

Annuaire-Bulletin de la Société de l'Histoire de France

ISSN: 0399-1350

The Société de l'Histoire de France (SHF) was established in 1833 by François Guizot to promote the renewal of scholarship fuelled by the widespread interest in national history typical of the Romantic period. Many leading French historians of the 19th and 20th centuries have been elected to its annual presidency, and members have contributed a vast quantity of critical editions of texts and documents. Initially limited to the period before 1789, the SHF later absorbed the Société d'histoire contemporaine (1927). Its periodical (Bulletin and Annuaire, merged since 1863 into Annuaire-Bulletin de la Société de l'Histoire de France) brings together contributions on all aspects of French history, including chronicles, memoirs, newspapers and correspondence, as well as financial and legal documents.

Analecta Bollandiana

Print ISSN: 0003-2468 – Online ISSN: 2507-0290

The journal Analecta Bollandiana was launched in 1882, initially as a complement to the Acta Sanctorum series, but it soon acquired a life of its own with articles written by Bollandists and other scholars, text editions, book reviews, etc. After 140 years, it still remains the main reference in the field of critical hagiography. Since the very beginning, the journal was intended to provide continuous updates to the Acta Sanctorum series, and to serve as an entirely new instrument devoted to hagiographical research. Every issue contains both critical editions of hagiographical texts (Greek, Latin, Oriental), and fundamental studies about hagiography. The articles are published in modern international languages English, French, German, Italian, and Spanish, and are accompanied by summaries in both English and French. A large section of each issue is devoted to book reviews and bibliography, which make the Analecta Bollandiana indispensable in any department of medieval, Byzantine, Slavonic and Christian Oriental studies, as well as Church history, comparative religion, ethnology, and folklore.

Annali di Scienze Religiose

International Journal of Religious Scholarship with an Annotated Bibliography of Ambrosian Studies

Print ISSN: 2031-5929 – Online ISSN: 2294-8775

Annali di Scienze Religiose is a periodical stemming from the research activities of the Department of Religious Science at the Università Cattolica di Milano (Catholic University of the Sacred Heart in Milan) which apply a multidisciplinary approach to religious phenomena and particularly focus on the three monotheistic religions and religions of the ancient Mediterranean world. The journal features contributions from Italian and foreign scholars writing in the main European languages and Arabic. Each issue is divided into a monographic section, which forms the subtitle of the issue, a section on conferences featuring texts that apply a scientific approach to a wide range of historical and comparative topics, and a final section presenting studies that offer timely contributions on specific themes. Every issue ends with the Ambrosian Bibliography, an annual survey of publications regarding the person and works of Ambrose of Milan.

Apocrypha

Revue Internationale des Littératures Apocryphes /
International Journal of Apocryphal Literatures

Print ISSN: 1155-3316 – Online ISSN: 2034-6468

Apocrypha is published with the scholarly assistance of the Association pour l'Étude de la Littérature Apocryphe Chrétienne (AELAC) and the Société pour l'Étude de la Littérature Apocryphe Chrétienne (SELAC). The journal focuses on the wealth of material borne through literature and expressions of the imagination over the course of two millennia. This material was generated, cultivated and transmitted by numerous Jewish communities and a range of Christian communities throughout Asia, Africa and Europe. The pages of this collection are written by those, who in their own disciplines and throughout their own research, find reasons to study this common material. Such scholarship aids to restore the real dimensions of these texts and draws attention to ideas which shaped the imaginations, minds and living spaces of so many societies and cultures.

Judaïsme Ancien / Ancient Judaism

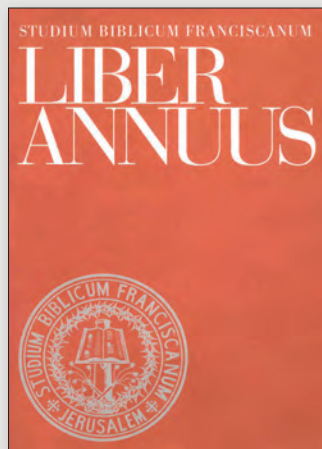

Revue Internationale d'Histoire et de Philologie /
International Journal of History and Philology

Print ISSN: 2294-9321 – Online ISSN: 2507-0339

This journal combines historical and philological perspectives with a strong interdisciplinary focus. Its scope encompasses literature, archaeology, epigraphy, culture, religion, and sociology, covering the period from the 6th century BCE to the 9th century CE. The journal is to be a milieu in which to characterize the interactions (relationships, specificities, distinctions, acculturations) between Rabbinic Judaism, Christian Judaism, and early Islam. Thus, it covers a broad spectrum without being exclusive. Judaïsme Ancien is the only international journal published in the French language on ancient Judaism, distinguished by its historical and philological approaches to the subject. However, it also accepts contributions in English, German and Italian.

Revue d'Études Augustiniennes et Patristiques

Print ISSN: 1768-9260 – Online ISSN: 2428-3606

The Revue d'Études Augustiniennes et Patristiques highlights advancements in scholarship related to early Christianity and the early Middle Ages. Its scope spans history, literature, philology, biblical exegesis, archaeology, iconography, philosophy, and theology, with a particular focus on the works of Augustine, their sources, and their subsequent influence. Each year, the journal also publishes a systematic list of critical reviews on Augustine. The Revue is also open to studies on other Latin and Greek Church Fathers, as well as research on movements such as Gnosticism and Manichaeism. Since 1995, each article has been summarized in both English and French.

Revue d'Histoire Ecclésiastique

Print ISSN: 0035-2381 – Online ISSN: 2294-1088

Founded in 1900, the Revue d'histoire ecclésiastique presents articles covering the entire history of Christianity. All articles are based on original source research and often explore innovative aspects of historical methodology. Articles are published primarily in French and English, with a few exceptions in German. In addition, the Revue offers its readers reviews of recent books on Church history in the broadest sense, in the form of both critiques and shorter notices. These reviews aim to cover the most important publications in the field. The journal also includes a country-by-country overview of conferences, awards, dissertations and more.

Sacris Erudiri

Print ISSN: 0771-7776 – Online ISSN: 2295-9025

Sacris Erudiri is an international journal of religious science in its broadest sense. Studies published refer mainly to the history of the Church, the history of liturgy and patristics. Whilst excluding nothing, the topics addressed refer more to factual and institutional history than to doctrinal history. These articles often represent preliminary analyses for later critical editions of patristic and medieval texts to be published in various series of the Corpus Christianorum. Articles are published in English, French, German, Italian and Spanish.

Journal for the History of Environment and Society

Revue Histoire, Environnement et Société. Zeitschrift für die Geschichte von Umwelt und Gesellschaft

Print ISSN: 2506-6730 – Online ISSN: 2506-6749

The Journal for the History of Environment and Society (JHES) aims to be a leading online and Open Access periodical that covers all aspects of environmental history conceived in its broadest sense. The journal encourages high-quality scholarship which focuses on relations between environmental changes and social-historical context. Interregional and international comparative articles receive special attention. Because of the interdisciplinary nature of the discipline, papers should be accessible for scholars from all disciplines in the field, which will also ensure their accessibility to a wider audience. Geographically, JHES focuses primarily – but not exclusively – on Northwest Europe (including areas that had historical relations with that broad region). Articles with a more general geographic scope can also be published in this journal.

CENTAURUS

JOURNAL OF THE EUROPEAN SOCIETY
FOR THE HISTORY OF SCIENCE

Centaurus. Journal of the European Society for the History of Science is an international English language journal and the official journal of the European Society for the History of Science. The journal was started in 1950 and has remained one of the major journals devoted to the study of the history of science.

Aims and scope

Centaurus publishes original research papers, historiographical articles, and other academic work on the history of science broadly conceived, including the history of mathematics, physical sciences, life sciences, earth sciences, social sciences, humanities, medicine and technology, and their social and cultural aspects.

It also invites contributions that establish connections between history of science and other disciplines. Book notices, book reviews and essay reviews of publications within the journal's scope are commissioned to experts.

The editor encourages suggestions for special issues, short papers on topics of current interest and articles suited to open peer commentary along with a list of potential commentators.

Subscribe-to-Open

From 2022, Centaurus is published in Diamond Open Access at no cost to the authors or readers through a partnership between the ESHS and Brepols.

The sustained success of our Open Access initiative will depend crucially on the support of libraries and other institutions via the Subscribe-to-Open (S2O) publishing model.
