

NEW BOOK SERIES

EAST CENTRAL EUROPE

476-1795 and beyond

This series publishes interdisciplinary scholarship on the history of East Central Europe. It aims to contribute to a broader understanding of the social, economic, and political culture of the region as an integral part of Europe and a significant contributor to the human story worldwide. In so doing, this series challenges the application of the concepts of periphery and frontier. It centres East Central Europe, seeking to question common perceptions of cultural transmission and to integrate East Central European history into the world history globally.
