The Museo Cartaceo ("Paper Museum") is a vast 17th-century collection of around 10,000 watercolours, drawings, and prints assembled by the Roman collectors Cassiano dal Pozzo and his brother Carlo Antonio. Created before the invention of photography, it was an ambitious effort to document and organize human knowledge visually.

It is an important resource for understanding the intellectual, artistic, cultural, and scientific developments of 17th-century Europe, a period when modern scientific methods were beginning to take shape.

“These splendid volumes, which allow us to experience at first hand the spirit of the inquiry that pervaded 17th-century Europe, are examples of modern scholarship and modern publishing at their best.”

T. K. Rabb | The Art Newspaper

A comprehensive 33-volume catalogue raisonné provides detailed access to the collection. The material is organized into:

- Series A: Antiquities and Architecture
- Series B: Natural History
- Series C: Prints

The drawings are reproduced as full-page colour illustrations, making the catalogue a major reference work for historians and researchers.

To celebrate the completion of this catalogue raisonné, we have reduced the prices of all available volumes.

Take advantage of this special opportunity to add these essential works to your library!
